• Sophomore status • Undergraduate • Language of Instruction: English & Chinese
• Pune, Manipal, or Varanasi, India • Provider Program

The India program introduces students to some of the most dynamic areas of Indian society and is designed for students from a wide variety of majors and academic interests. The program combines a core academic base with specialization through electives and a required internship or directed research project. The Alliance arranges internship placements within Pune’s most forward-thinking and respected organizations. Students may elect to room with other Alliance students or Indian students in an apartment adjoined to Indian student housing; to live semi-independently with an Indian family; or to undertake an embedded home stay within an Indian household.

China

01 Alliance for Global Education
• Fall Semester, Spring Semester, Academic Year • 3.0 GPA
• Sophomore status • Undergraduate • Language of Instruction: English & Chinese
• Beijing, Shanghai, or Xi’an, China • Provider Program

Studying in China offers the opportunity to live in one of the world’s most fascinating and fast-changing places. The China Programs offer students small, intensive language classes from beginning through advanced Chinese with options for instruction in English as well. Students complete a Capstone Academic Research Project, which challenges them to deepen their understanding of China. Some students have the option of living with a Chinese roommate and taking part in a full schedule of excursions, activities, and lectures all designed to enhance their understanding of China.

02 China Study Tour
• Summer Semester • 2.5 GPA • Sophomore status • Undergraduate
• Language of Instruction: English • Beijing, Shanghai, or Xi’an, China
• Sponsored by the UND College of Business and Public Administration

This exciting faculty-directed study abroad program is open to all UND students regardless of major and offers an in-depth examination of China, a country of growing global importance. With special emphasis on the practical development of cross-cultural skills including those applicable to business, the program helps students gain an understanding of China’s history, politics, legal system, customs, and culture. Professors Colleen Berry and Victoria Beard are the instructors for this program, in which students play an active role in designing their own fieldwork projects and itineraries. The trip is not a tour; students schedule their own time and get around on their own using public transportation. Guidance provided as needed.

Included in program fees are excursions to Cape Town, Robben Island, the Cape of Good Hope, and the Cederber Mountains. A six-day tour of the Garden Route is also included for all students, with stops for encounters with wildlife like ostriches, crocodiles, cheetahs, monkeys, and elephants.
American Institute For Foreign Study
AIFS has programs in 20 countries and will provide superior value with affordable fees, and cost less than if the student had made arrangements on their own. All costs are covered and payable in U.S. dollars before students leave. The UND Study Abroad Office is pleased to offer a fixed grant of $400 for each UND student participating in a semester or $200 for each summer program. AIFS also offers 40 semester scholarships at $1,000 each which can be used in conjunction with other financial aid.

CEA Global Education
CEA Global Education's goal is to create and facilitate opportunities for academic achievement, global competence and personal growth through quality international education. CEA prides itself on offering exemplary customer service to students throughout their experience, from their innovative uses of technology to their caring personal admissions counselors, site specialists and talented faculty abroad.

GlobaLinks
GlobaLinks has sent over 20,000 university/college students abroad over the past 20 years. GlobaLinks strives to offer students programs that are academically and culturally enriching. Cultural integration is a cornerstone of the GlobaLinks program; they offer counseling and support, provide cultural information, house students with locals or other international students, and offer extensive travel opportunities.

Educators Abroad
This program offers prospective K-12 teachers the opportunity to develop their teaching abilities and expand their cultural awareness by completing student teaching requirements in more than 40 countries around the world. This is an organization with a recognized reputation for excellence in international educational opportunities. Educators Abroad is accredited by the British Accreditation Council. Through this affiliation, UND students are able to meet their student teaching requirement in schools throughout the world.

Institute for Study Abroad, Butler University
The Institute for Study Abroad, Butler University (IFSA-Butler) is a nonprofit organization founded in 1988 at Butler University. IFSA-Butler's goals are to assist students to become more culturally aware and better able to contribute as effective and involved citizens in today's global society. Financial Aid and Scholarships - Most students are able to maintain their existing federal financial aid and scholarships while studying abroad. Grants and scholarships for your specific program may be available.

Program Costs - Costs are available by request from the Education Abroad Advisors.

Passports - If you do not already have a passport, apply for one as soon as you make the decision to study abroad, visit www.travel.state.gov for more information on the application process.

Visas - Visa information varies by country and length of time abroad. Visas will be discussed at the meeting with the Education Abroad Advisor.

Transportation - Transportation arrangements are made by the student when they have received acceptance into a program.

Insurance - UND policy requires that all students participating in a Study Abroad program are covered by UND Study Abroad insurance. For more information, please meet with an Education Abroad Advisor.

The UND Registrar’s Office treats credits from Study Abroad as transfer credits and follows the transfer credit policy outlined in the UND Academic Catalog. Transcripts issued by a U.S. accredited institution will be evaluated by the UND Registrar’s Office. Transcripts issued by a non-U.S. institution require a third-party transcript evaluation. Please check with an Education Abroad Advisor for more information.

Studying abroad can be one of the most incredible and challenging experiences that you will ever have! Studying in another country allows you to learn about another culture, meet new friends, learn a different language, and learn a lot about yourself in the process. As the world gets smaller and smaller and the global economy continues to emerge, students today need experience in an international setting in order to succeed in today’s world. Studying abroad can be a once in a lifetime experience that can help you succeed in the future.

Study Abroad Policies
In order to make study abroad experiences as safe and successful as possible, UND maintains certain policies to which students enrolling in the Study Abroad programs are bound. While studying abroad, you are still bound by the UND Code of Student Life, the Academic Catalog, and Federal Financial Aid regulations. Please contact the Education Abroad office for more information. Changes may be made to policies and programs at any time in order to safeguard student’s physical, emotional, and academic well-being. In addition, the University of North Dakota will not offer or support any study abroad in countries that are under a U.S. Department of State Travel Warning. This means that UND will not register the students for the time they are abroad nor will they authorize access to financial aid for the program. Requests for exemptions based on “special circumstances” are evaluated on a program-by-program basis by the Office of International Programs in consultation with the Office of the Provost, Campus Safety and Security, and General Council.

Eligibility for Study Abroad
• A minimum GPA of 2.50 at the time of application and to be maintained throughout the study abroad process (some programs require a higher GPA).
• Earned 24 university level credits (or sophomore status) before scheduled departure on the program. The completion of only 12 credits is required for the American College of Norway.
• Not currently on probation from the Dean of Students Office or Housing Office (or probationary period expired by start of study abroad program).

It is recommended that students discuss the disability accommodations they may need with an Education Abroad Advisor before selecting a Study Abroad program.

It is the policy of the University of North Dakota that there shall be no discrimination against persons because of race, religion, age, color, sex, disability, sexual orientation, national origin, marital status, veteran status, or political belief or affiliation, and that equal opportunity and access to facilities shall be available to all. This policy is particularly applicable in the admission of students in all colleges and in their academic pursuits. It also is applicable in University-owned or University-approved housing, food services, extracurricular activities and all other student services. It is the guiding policy in the employment of students either by the University or by non-University employers through the University and in the employment of faculty and staff. Inquiries as to the equal opportunity, affirmative action, or diversity policies for the University of North Dakota will not offer or support any study abroad in countries that are under a U.S. Department of State Travel Warning.
