Length: Approximately 30 hours, complete in 4 months

Dates: Rolling admission

Number of Graduate Professional Development Credits: 2, from the University North Dakota

Introduction

Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) is an interactive distance learning course designed to help you achieve a better understanding of ADHD and provide intervention strategies to facilitate positive student change. Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder provides information on the history of the disorder, accepted methods to assess and identify students with the disorder, and various treatment methods that are currently being used to treat the disorder. The course helps you through the referral process when you feel a student needs services beyond what you are capable of or comfortable providing in your classroom environment. This course also lists resources for both teachers and parents who would like more help or information about ADHD.

This online, self-paced program can be started and completed at the student's own leisure within four months from the UND assigned course start date after enrollment.

Learning Objectives

As a result of this course, participants will demonstrate their ability to:

- Define the characteristics of attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder for better understanding of the disorder
- Provide a history of the disorder to increase knowledge and understanding
- Increase ability to identify and assess students possibly having the disorder
- Increase the number of intervention strategies available to remediate academic problems and distracting or self-defeating behaviors
- Provide information on various treatment methods used in the treatment of this disorder
- Increase knowledge of the referral process for parents and/or professionals in education
- Provide resources for teachers and parents to help them and the students with whom they work

Session Topics

The course is divided into four chapters.

Chapter 1: History & Prevalence

Chapter 2: Assessment & Special Education

Chapter 3: Resources & Approaches

Chapter 4: Curriculum Modifications & Interventions

Course Materials

This computer-based instruction course is a self-supporting program that provides instruction, structured practice, and evaluation all on your home or school computer. Technical support information can be found in the Help section of your course. There are NO required textbooks.

Assignments & Examinations

Assignments-

This course has two required writing components. ALL ASSIGNMENTS ARE REVIEWED.
