RE: 2022 – 2023 Annual Timeline for Promotion & Tenure Review

Below please find the timelines that will apply to the promotion and/or tenure process for all eligible faculty for the 2022 – 2023 academic year. UND promotion, tenure, and evaluation information, including a listing of the required materials and relevant forms, is available here at the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs webpage.

As a reminder, the UND Faculty Handbook requires that faculty with research obligations who are seeking tenure and/or promotion include external reviewers as part of the review process, no matter the rank. This is outlined in the New Faculty Handbook. For more guidance and templates on external reviewers please see the VPAA Promotion and Tenure website.

Background

The University of North Dakota's (UND) success depends on academic excellence and the exceptional work and outstanding achievements of its distinguished faculty. Promotion and tenure are among the most significant professional benchmarks during a faculty member's career in teaching, research or creative scholarship, and service. Tenure is awarded for academic achievement, confidence in future performance, contributions to the university and its communities, and in recognition of the value of academic freedom. Promotion recognizes evidence of intellectual distinction, professional recognition, and academic integrity. Together, promotion and tenure—along with the annual evaluation process for all faculty that aligns performance objectives and outcomes—encompass the scope of faculty roles and responsibilities, and they impact the vitality and viability of UND's academic mission. Promotion and Tenure processes must be conducted rigorously, fairly, and in accordance with appropriate benchmarks and metrics that align with discipline-specific standards and national norms.

At UND, all recommendations and advice on faculty promotion and tenure are to be informed by and in accordance with State Board of Higher Education policy (see esp. 605.1, 605.2, 605.3 and 605.4), North Dakota University System policy (see esp. Sec. 605.1), the UND Faculty Handbook, and UND College, School, and Departmental policies and procedures (see specific guidelines at the unit levels).

Discipline-specific norms and standards, as well as national best practices, also should inform university PTE policies, practices, and procedures.

Timeline for the Promotion and Tenure Process

The following timeline will apply to the promotion and tenure process for all eligible faculty for the 2022-2023 academic year. All University-level dates are to remain reasonably fixed with minimal change from year-to-year. If a date falls on a weekend, federal or state holiday, or other day that the University is officially closed, the deadline is automatically extended to the next business day. College or School Dean's offices should share these dates and deadlines, along with any applicable internal deadlines, with Department Chairs and all faculty, and they will be posted on the Vice President for Academic Affairs webpage. Any College- or School-specific deadlines that differ from the University timeline must be communicated directly to candidates by the College or School.

Notes and Additional Guidance

All required faculty dossier materials forwarded to the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs must be in electronic form. It is therefore recommended that Departments, Colleges, and Schools move required materials to electronic form for review at all levels.

The terms “recommendation” and “advice” reflect the UND Faculty Handbook, which specifies that Chairs, Deans, and the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs make written “recommendations” on promotion and/or tenure applications. Committees, therefore, advise those entities. The faculty member’s right to review and respond occurs at each instance of formal recommendation.

Per SBHE policy, for tenure-eligible faculty hired at mid-year, the half-year of service shall count as full-year toward tenure.

Time spent on leave of absence or developmental leave may be counted as academic service. Faculty members should obtain the approval of the Chair, Dean, and Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs if they choose to extend their probationary period due to a leave of absence or developmental leave. See UND Faculty Handbook, Sec. 1-8.

A request for an extension of the probationary period for tenure-eligible faculty because of an exceptional circumstance may be submitted at any time, but no later than August 15 preceding the faculty member’s final probationary year (i.e. the year in which the faculty member would be required to apply for tenure). Requests for extension should be made using the form available on the VPAA website.
